I. Introduction

Interprofessional practice and education is an important way to solve the healthcare person's problem at many levels and we are glad to be part of this change which has already taken place in many parts of the developed countries with including IPE at the accreditation level, competency level from being an optional to one of the competency requirement for healthcare professionals. Our students pursuing higher education also looking for job opportunities this competency might be an important part of their progress. The Panel Consisting of the National and International Experts have made their points clear and also administrators in various capacities in the colleges have put in their view points. This is a Compilation of the Panel Discussion held on 15th September 2020, on incorporation of the interprofessional practice and education curriculum at the Colleges, and universities., held as an online panel discussion at Yenepoya Dental College, Yenepoya (Deemed to be University), Mangaluru, Karnataka, India organized by the Yenepoya Dental Education Unit in association with Centre for Health Professions Education.

Opening statement:

Dr.Akhter Husain, Principal/Dean Yenepoya Dental College, Interprofessional Education provides students with opportunities to learn and practice skills that improve their ability to communicate and collaborate. Through the experience of learning with and from those in other professions, students also develop leadership qualities and respect for each other, which prepares them for work on teams and in settings where collaboration is a key to success. This success is measured by better and safer patient care as well as improved population health outcomes. Although different situations may require different team members, who each bring to the team a unique set of skills, emphasized that the patient, the family, other caregivers, and the community are integral members of all teams regardless of the context. So with these thoughts in mind I am really hopeful the YDEU unit which is working towards the IPE in the university to bring in positive changes and also it's my proud feeling that dental college has taken the initiative... And leading the way to make a difference.

II. Contributions by panellists:

Dr.Samar Ahmed, the international expert of IPE was positive as the development around the world for IPE has been very positive and cited examples from the world towards IPE. Also said it bring the cost down of the health care system and also stressed the it can do miracle for the higher education and also the quality of graduates also will increase.

Dr.Mary Showsatrk, An expert in the field of IPE, also a physician assistant by herself has stressed the importance of the role played by the Physician assistants and also made her point clear for the incorporation of the IPE in the curriculam requires overall support from the management to faculty to students.

Dr.Pushpanjali Former Academic Registrar, MS Ramaiah University of applied Sciences, Bangalore, Head of the department of the Public Health Dentistry also the National President of the Indian Association of Public Health Dentistry, from the admistrative point of view stressed the importance of support from the management and also stressed the importance of the hierarchy also the hunger to go beyond syllabus to achieve the best things, also cited the implementation of the outcome based education at their university as an example of participation and collaboration.

Dr.Elsa, Professor, Medical Surgical Nursing, MCN,MAHE and Manipal FAIMER Fellow, stressed the role played by various professions including nursing in preventing the adverse drug reactions and medication errors. The role of IPE in this major part of the patient care.

Dr.Leena KC, Principal Yenepoya Nursing College, focussed on the current status of nursing education and being done in silos, also stressed the need for the IPE and also made a point that its necessary to start a beginning in the lines of the IPE.

Dr.Moosabba, General Surgeon and Principal/Dean Yenepoya Medical College, cited numerous example of his profession where without the IPE component or collaboration the surgery will not be successful and also stressed in all these things patient is the beneficiary. Dr.Moosabba was right on the point that the module of IPE in the MBBS curriculum Can be incorporated at the either AETCOM Module or as electives for them in the 2nd year of their Course.

Professor Padma Kumar, Principal, Yenepoya Physiotherapy College, stressed the inclusion of IPE and also cited various examples of the IPE experiences in the existing set up. But also stressed that professional indifferences may also be hindering the learning among the allied health sciences.

Dr.Ramprasad, HOD, Department of Public Health Dentistry MCODS, MAHE stressed the importance of including the interprofessional education in the university and national curriculam for making the desirable changes and making the Indian Graduates globally competent.

Dr.Gagan, stressed the importance of the interprofessional education among the allied sciences to bridge the communication and collaborative gap that exists in the system and also to come out of silos to make sure patient is given the best possible treatment. Also stressed the strong support of the management and faculty to drive through the changes.

Dr.Sham S. Bhat though cited his own example of the IPE experiences within the pedodontics subjects stressed the difficulty of scheduling the syllabus in the current undergraduate or postgraduate program.

Dr.Laxmikant Chatra, was also stressed that Dental Council of India Sylabus an hurdle to make the IPE an successful part of the curriculum and wanted the apex body to make the changes, but he was positive that these changes are going to bring about the positive changes in the system.

Dr.Nanditha Sujir, provided the practical example how the Manipal academy of higher education, with strong support from the management and principal of the college was able to bring about the changes and also making the IPE syllabus internalize within the curriculum.

Dr.Samar stressed the importance of creating the community of practice to bring about the positive changes in the system, also from her international experience cited how the developed countries have made it a mandatory accreditation requirement of IPE forcing the universities to adopt these In a successful way.

III. Concluding observations:

Dr.Gagan, Dr.Imran Pasha M and Dr.Padmini T summarized the entire Panel Discussion:

1.There is an increased need for the support from the administration.

2.There is a need to internalize the IPE experiences to bring in the positive changes in the system.

3.The need for faculty development programs and also identifying the IPE champions within the university.

4.The need for academic scholarship and recognition from the institutes to drive the changes.

5.The new education policy also stresses the importance of interprofessional practice for the overall development.

Report on- Webinar for their students on 'Enabling Youth to Develop Positive Mental Health'

Mangaluru, Jul 7: The NSS unit and Eco Club of the Yenepoya Institute of Arts, Science, Commerce and Management, Balmatta, in collaboration with IQAC organized a webinar on July 7, 2020 for the students entitled 'Enabling Youth to Develop Positive Mental Health'. The purpose of this webinar was to give the students a sense of direction to navigate through the present scenario of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Dr Rameela Shekhar, Mental Health Professional, Manashanthi Counselling, Research and training centre was the resource person of the webinar.

Dr. Parvadhavardhini Gopalakrishan, Principal, introduced and welcomed the resource person. In her key note address, she stated that the unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic crisis will be with us for a relatively long period and is unavoidable. She requested the students to navigate through this situation with a positive outlook and adapt to changes.

Dr. Shareena P., Vice-Principal, advised the participants to make use of their free time and adopt a routine of keeping oneself physically and mentally fit.

Dr Rameela Shekhar began the session sharing the research findings of the online survey conducted by her before the webinar. She related examples of several types of stress and anxiety experienced during this pandemic. She said that people all over the globe are undergoing mental health issues along with the COVID-19 pandemic. The roots of stress are a lot of negative thinking, high expectations, 'should' and 'must be done' approach, perfectionist attitude of people etc. Following the right schedule of work makes an individual deal with the situation and improve the quality of productive life. Taking up a new hobby, substituting fear with faith, practicing positive thinking, being mindful of thoughts and feelings of self and others, developing a spiritual self, virtual socializing, spending quality time with family members, good rapport with neighbours, venting out gut feelings, exchanging ideas, eating healthy food, good sleep, regular exercise etc would help to defeat stress and anxiety during the pandemic. Above all, keeping space for 'ME time' in the daily routine is crucial to find inner comfort. She pointed out that seeking help from a mental health professional during stress and anxiety is not a weakness but a strength to overcome the situation. Dr Rameela responded to the queries raised by the participants before concluding her session.

Report

Venue:

Yenepoya Medical College, Yenepoya (Deemed to be University), Mangaluru, Karnataka, India

Date: August 26-27, 2019

Course Rationale

In line with the strategic vision of the International Union Against Tuberculosis and Lung Disease (The Union's) and Yenepoya (Deemed to be University), Centre for Operational Research and the Department of Community Medicine, Yenepoya Medical College, Mangalore, India organised this short course. The objective was to build capacity of medical college faculty and public health professionals in searching PubMed, so that they can retrieve all important relevant literature, and in using a Reference Management tool to manage all the results, and cite and reference them correctly. We envision that this will ultimately become a part of the regular curriculum in medical colleges and public health teaching institutions in India.

Expected outputs

In class, participants worked through the short course's exercises. Participants were given an end-of-the-course assignment to be completed by 15 September 2019 under the guidance of the allocated mentors. Certificates will be provided only after successful completion of the assignment.

Selection of participants

This was a beginner's course for the faculty and postgraduates working in medical colleges. The information about the course was circulated via networks to email, social media and online communities among medical college faculty and applications were invited. A total of twenty participants were selected. The numbers of facilitators werefour (5 participants per facilitator). The participants and facilitators are listed in the annex at the end of the report.

Course content and methodology

The course content was developed based on the short course created by The Union and QMed Knowledge Foundation. The curriculum is modular in the form of a series of exercises. The entire curriculum is based on the usage of PubMed and the free software for managing references - Mendeley. Participants were given an overview of PubMed for its scope and features. Every session consisted of a presentation and demonstration by the facilitator followed by 'exercise tasks' as an opportunity for the participants to practice. This was followed by discussion of the 'exercise solutions' by the facilitator including clarifying any queries in the group. Mentors were allocated to the participants who guided them during and after the course. The same was done for Mendeley. The duration of the course was two days and the broad agenda is given below.

Day 1

- Registration/Introductions
- Lectures on principles of searching, and features in PubMed
- Creating My NCBI accounts in PubMed and customizing
- Demonstration and exercises of the following: MeSH search, applying filters, using the Single Citation Matcher, saving search strategies and filters
- Advanced search strategy Searching on their topics

Day 2

- Lectures about citation and referencing styles
- Installation of Mendeley software, web importer, and Word Plugin
- Creating folders and groups
- Creating and managing Mendeley library
- Customizing reference styles using citation style editor

1. Organization before the Module
2. Organization during the Module
3. Accommodation
4. Course Module materials
5. Overall content of the Module
6. Overall format of the Module (duration, module approach, practical examples)
7. Attitude of teaching faculty towards participants
8. Balance between lectures, discussion, individual work and presentations
9. Day 1: Introduction and Demonstration to PubMed, MeSH Database and Advanced Search Building Strategy
10. Day 2: Introduction and Demonstration of Mendeley (Reference Manager) and Reference Management
11. What did you like about the course?
12. What did you dislike about the course? How could this be improved?
13. Which part or section of the module, if any, did you find especially difficult to understand? Why?
14. Do you have any other comments or suggestions for improvement of the course?
15. Would you recommend participation in this course to a colleague?

The score for questions 1 to 10aresemi-quantitative with five levels:

Qualitative score	Quantitative score
Excellent	5
Good	4
Average	3
Insufficient	2
Very poor	1

Feedback

Facilitators' feedback: The course was meticulously planned, with sincere and enthusiastic cohort of participants.

The following were the action points/suggestions:

1. Careful selection of participants is of utmost importance while conducting courses such as these. It was observed that majority of the participants were postgraduates, which is great as they are trained in research oriented skills in early phase of their career. However, capacity building of young faculty at the Assistant Professor level should be undertaken. Permission needs to be obtained from the university to depute one Assistant/Associate Professor with research potential from every department of the medical college for future courses. Courses like these would go a long way in enhancing their skills.

2. There was a delay in the start of sessions on both the days despite the fact that the participants were instructed to report to the venue at 8.45 am, so as to ensure that the sessions begin at 9.00 am. However, the sessions began only at 9.15 am on both the days. In future courses, necessary steps have to be taken to ensure that the participants report to the venue on time.
3. Many participants seated in the back row were unable to view the demonstrations projected on the screen clearly. It was observed that the screen size was small. In future courses involving hands-on exercises, it is imperative to procure a bigger screen. Further, the clarity of the LCD projector needs to be addressed.
4. It was evident that the Mendeley desktop citation does not support Microsoft Word 2016 and above versions due to which participants with higher versions of Microsoft Office experienced problems in installing the word citation plug-in. This needs to be solved in future courses

5. Few participants had difficulties in installing the Mendeley software during the session allotted for the same. It was noted that considerable time was spent in creating an NCBI account as well. We recommend that the participants must create an NCBI account and install Mendeley software before coming to the course as a pre-requisite. The same may be mentioned in the welcome e-mail. Further, efforts need to be made to link the participants with their respective course mentors in the pre-course welcome mail. The course mentors may support participants to complete the above tasks before the course. This would help in identifying and resolving glitches due to incompatibilities of software and operating systems.
6. The session on editing citation styles was difficult for many participants to comprehend. Since this is not an essential skill, this session may be taken out of the course in future. This may be replaced with more examples and exercise.

Feed backs:

1) Dr. M. Vijayakumar,
Prof. of Surgical Oncology & Hon. Vice Chancellor
Yenepoya (Deemed to be University)

I am extremely happy and thankful to Verwandeln Institute Kochi and my special thanks to Dr. Padmakumar who trusted our capabilities in conducting such a wonderful program, although, we have never done one earlier. That trust gave us the necessary impetus for the whole team from Yenepoya (deemed to be university) and the department of General Surgery to go ahead with all the arrangements required to make the programme a successful one both at our Advanced Surgical Skill Enhancement Centre (ASSEND) and subsequent to that major O.T. on the next two days. In fact, all my colleagues actually understood their potential in conducting such programmes in such a wonderful manner. Thanks to the Verwandeln Institute Kochi once again for the opportunity given. In short we learnt a lot how to do such programmes and we will relish the memory. Expecting to have many more such programmes through our continued collaboration between the two organisations

2) Dr. M.S. Moosabba
Prof. of Surgery & Principal / Dean , Yenepoya Medical College

Thank you and your team for conducting a grand and very successful 'Hands on Training Programme in Laparoscopy' in our Animal Lab and our Hospital.

I hope, the participation from our side is upto your expectations. If there is any shortage from our side, please pardon us.

Expecting more participation in future.

3) Dr. P.S.M Ameer Ali,
Professor & HOD, Department of General Surgery

The four days of hands-on training programme in Laparoscopic Surgery was held at Yenepoya Medical College jointly by The Department of General Surgery, Yenepoya Medical College and Verwandeln Institute, Kochi from 12th to 15th of June 2019 concluded very successfully.

The delegates were taken around the simulation lab which is considered to be one of the advanced virtual lab in the country.

There were various lecture sessions and video presentation by the faculty of Verwandeln Institute, Kochi and the faculty of Yenepoya Medical College.

On the 12th and 13th the participating surgeons performed thirty three live procedures in the Animal lab.

On 14th and 15th, we conducted live laparoscopic camp in association with Verwandeln Institute, Kochi.

We did a total of twenty two procedures. Ten cases of laparoscopic hernioplasty. Six cases of laparoscopic cholecystectomy and six cases of laparoscopic Appendicectomy.

All the cases were uneventful. All the patients were discharged on the 17th and 18th instant.

The staff of the department of Surgery, the faculty of Verwandeln Institute, the participating surgeons, the staff of the department of Anaesthesiology, the staff of nursing in the Operation theatre, the rest of the nursing staff of all the wards, the postgraduates of Surgery and Anaesthesiology, the OT technicians, the canteen staff etc. were fully involved in this programme and very professional in executing their duties.

We propose to conduct such camps once in four months in the future.

The CME for Surgeons conducted at IMA Mangalore was attended by around One hundred and seventy five members. Total number of consultants attended is Sixty five. All the Heads of the department of Surgery of other colleges of Mangalore and senior faculties attended this programme. Total number of Postgraduates attended is One hundred and ten (inclusive of all Medical Colleges). The meeting was followed by fellowship and dinner

Suggestions to improve :

1) Arranging materials locally (as transporting materials obtained at Kochi to Yeneopoya Mangalore was a major challenge). Need to request companies to deliver items directly to Yenepoya University
2) Preparing advance calendar so as to get more Surgeons to attend the training program
3) Finances –
   - Getting sponsorship for CME
   - Charging patients small sum to recover expenses partly
4) Recording of procedures and activities for further training
   - Animal lab
   - Operation theater
5) Publicity among Surgeons for more frequent utilization of animal lab, virtual lab and training programmes.
6) Conducting similar events in other surgical departments and Gastro (for endoscopy training)
7) Virtual lab module development for various laparscopic procedures. Transmission to OT while cases are on
8) Different training programmes - larger duration and shorter duration
   - Bariatric
   - Robotic
   - Skill sessions
   - PG sessions

Conclusion :

- The skill enhancement programme was highly successful.
- Surgeons could be well trained to do laparoscopic procedures
- Attracted wide spread appreciation from Surgeons, team members, faculty and others in University and outside.
- Around 30 patients were benefitted financially and physically by the high quality laparoscopic surgeries
- Major publicity to Yenepoya University and Verwandeln Institute as good academic groups
- University departments also geared up for more such initiatives in academic activities
- Co-operation with University and Verwandeln Institute can bring in more such events and there by laurels to both groups

Hope to have more mutually beneficial events.

Dear students,

Welcome to DERMABASICS - 2018, an annual event organized by IADVL Karnataka for budding postgraduates in the field of Dermatology. The Dermatology department of Yenepoya Medical College, Yenepoya (Deemed to be University) takes great pleasure in hosting the program this year.

It is important to lay a strong foundation for young postgraduates as they step into the field of Dermatology. DERMABASICS -2018 aims to introduce residents to various aspects of dermatological practice, including basic history taking and examination skills, patient management, teaching programmes, dissertation & research. An additional focus will be given to basic life support measures which will be helpful during emergencies. This platform will provide you an opportunity to learn from & interact with eminent speakers from various fields.

Brief report on the event :

Department of Dermatology, Venereology & Leprosy, Yenepoya Medical College, Yenepoya (Deemed to be University) in association with Indian Association of Dermatologists, Venereologists & Leprologists (IADVL), Karnataka branch organized "DERMABASICS 2018", an orientation program for first year postgraduates of Dermatology, Venereology & Leprosy on 5th August 2018. The program was an initiative of IADVL, Karnataka headed by President Dr Chandrashekar B S and General Secretary Dr Manjunatha R. The Organizing committee comprised of Dr Manjunath Shenoy M, Dr Spandana P Hegde, Dr Vishal B, Dr Amina Asfiya M I, Dr Malcolm Pinto and Postgraduates of the Dermatology department.

The chief guest of the program was Mr Farhad Yenepoya, Director Finance of Yenepoya (Deemed to be University). Dr M S Moosabba, Dean, Yenepoya Medical College was the guest of honor. The program was conducted by 17 faculties from various parts of the state. The sessions introduced residents to basic history taking and examination skills, patient management, teaching programmes, dissertation & research. There were 6 demonstration stations related to various aspects of dermatological practice as well as basic life support. Dr M. A. Wani, Chief Operating Officer of Yenepoya Medical College Hospital was the chief guest of the valedictory ceremony.

The program was attended by 116 first year dermatology postgraduates from all over Karnataka.

Advantage to the University:

1. It is a unique program organized for post graduates at entry level. This may set an example for other departments to organize similar programmes.
2. Utilization of ACTS YEN for dermatology teaching.
3. Faculties from the departments of ENT, anatomy and anaesthesia of Yenepoya Medical College were given an opportunity to conduct sessions thus strengthening the inter- departmental relationship.

REPORT ON CONTINUING NURSING EDUCATION PROGRAMME ON

CHALLENGES IN PSYCHIATRIC ASSESSMENT AND MANAGEMENT

Department of Mental Health Nursing organized a continuing nursing education program on "Challenges in Psychiatric Assessment and Management" on 07.12.16 at Indoor Auditorium, Yenepoya Medical College. Inaugural programme started at 9.30 am with invocation by Mr. Safwan Ahammed, I Year BSc Nursing student. Mrs. Vineetha Jacob, HoD, Mental Health Nursing, welcomed the gathering. The programme was inaugurated by the chief guest Prof. Chanu Bhattacharya, HoD, Research and Statistics, Father Muller College of Nursing, Mangaluru, by lighting the lamp. This was followed by chief guest address, where she highlighted about the need for conducting continuing nursing education programmes. President of the function, Hon'ble Vice Chancellor, Dr. M. Vijayakumar in the presidential address emphasized on importance of interpersonal relationship and thus improving the skill of assessment. Dr.G. Shreekumar Menon, Registrar, Yenepoya University in his speech highlighted the significance of reading and advised to read the book titled "The Brain". Vote of thanks was proposed by Ms. Viji Prasad C., Asst. Professor, Dept. of Mental Health Nursing. Dr. Asha P Shetty, Dean, Yenepoya Nursing College, was present for the function.

The first session on "Psychiatric Assessment and Management: the challenges" was started at 10.30 am. The resource person was Dr. Ravi Chandra Karkal, Asst.Professor, Dept.of Psychiatry, YMCH. He explained regarding various assessment methods. He emphasized on interview skills which is very essential to conduct assessment in psychiatry. Second session was dealt by Prof. Chanu Bhattacharya on "Preparation of nurses for working in psychiatric set up". She explained regarding challenges of nursing management and the methods to overcome it. Third session was on "Good mental health: peer support and social activities" by Dr. Jayaram, Psychiatric social worker, Dept. of Psychiatry, YMCH. He explained about the role of peer and social support in the management of patients with mental illness. The programme came to an end at 1.30 pm.

Total participants registered were 115, including nursing staff, B.Sc nursing students, MSW students and Medical PG students. All the sessions were very informative and enhanced their knowledge in assessment and management of patients in clinical setting.
